

The Formentera Council's social welfare department announces that from Monday October 22 to Friday November 2, islanders can sign up to take part in the eleventh round of social and cultural integration classes. Space is available for 15, and the twice-weekly lessons —a total of 20 hours of instruction from March 6-28— will take place in the large classroom of the Formentera adult learning centre.

Course content

The classes are mainly geared towards immigrants, particularly those wishing to renew their residence permit, prepare for the CCSE citizenship test or demonstrate integration during the early phases of their stay in Spain.

Topics covered will include Spain's constitutional values, human rights and civil liberties, the Balearic Statute of Autonomy, the European Union and gender equality, among others. The courses are aimed at familiarising students with the various subjects and helping them obtain the associated accreditation from the Balearic regional government.

Signups are open to all. Visit the social welfare department (àrea de Benestar Social) during normal office hours or phone them at 971 321 271.
