

Wednesday through Friday, la Mola's Casa del Poble will host screenings of some of the top-ranking short films from the city of Soria's international festival of short films. Over three days, film fans will be treated to 32 productions from Formentera, mainland Spain and further afield.

This is the second time films from the Soria festival can be seen locally as part of Cine a los 4 vientos. The project isn't just about pushing the short-film format and creating new markets by showing the most-acclaimed works from last year's Certamen Internacional de Soria in a host of countries, festivals and towns, it represents an effort to promote the Soria film fest itself.

Screenings will be held at the Casa del Poble on Wednesday the 11th, Thursday the 12th and Friday the 13th from 8.30pm in twice-daily 45-minute sessions. On the final day, the programme will feature filmmaker Pilar Aldea's tribute to Miguel Angel Moreno "Tranquilito" and an 11.00pm jam session in Can Toni.

The evening screenings, which are organised by Espai F with help from Formentera Film, Can Toni and the Council, will also be attended by festival director Javier Muñiz.
