

The Formentera Council's department of culture and education announces the upcoming reopening of Sant Francesc's Marià Villangómez library. On Thursday August 23, library staff will resume summer hours.

The library's recent closure was intended to allow for upgrades. Crews cleaned, scraped old paint from, and repainted the library entrance walls, and completed similar operations at the neighbouring school of music and dance. They also switched out a broken section of flooring.

Despite the reopening's originally being planned for Monday, upgrade delays meant the completion was pushed back to Wednesday. The library will resume summertime operations on Thursday, then, from 10.00am to 1.00pm and again in the evening 5.00pm to 8.00pm.
